

About Eco Founder:

Monica Sanchez is an Eco-mother and an Activist, determined to paint the world a brighter shade of green.

With a Bachelor's degree in Social Communications, Monica's career roots began with founding and coordinating non-profit organizations in Bolivia – South America as MAAMA organization that educates and empowers women about their reproductive rights. (Financed by: "Population Concern" and the "Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation").

Monica eventually moved with her family to the United States and created a new home in Orange County, California. She juggled learning English at the University while caring for her young son and daughter—her daily inspiration for walking the green path of life. While raising her kids, she discovered her passion and ability to organize numerous birthday parties, holidays and other celebratory events for family and friends. Her niche: creating 'green' parties that promoted optimal health while helping protect the environment. This idea became contagious and soon she saw a growing demand for environmentally-friendly parties. It was from these grassroots that her company, Eco Friendly Party (www.ecofriendlyparty.com) was born.

Today, Monica's company has grown to serve all different kinds of celebratory events (weddings, birthdays, holidays, animal events) and is helping mothers create go-green parties that educate, inspire and entertain children of all ages.
